The Achievement Gap.

PPLC participants posing with former State Senator Jarrett T. Barrios after a visit to the Massachusetts State House.

The Public Policy and Leadership Conference (PPLC) seeks to address the disproportionately low numbers of ethnic minorities enrolled in graduate programs in Public Policy and International Affairs. This focus stems from a core belief that our citizens are best served by public managers, policy makers and community leaders who represent the diverse backgrounds and perspectives of their constituencies.

Students admitted to the conference will hear from guest speakers who share information on graduate programs in public policy, career opportunities and fellowships. Several Harvard professors, staff, and students conduct various workshops on policy issues, career planning, resume building and leadership. Finally, participants will have the opportunity to learn about graduate school application strategies and public service-related fellowships to fund graduate school.
